Shigakukan Students Say Sayonara and Arigato! (Good-bye and Thank you!)

It was another whirlwind three week visit by the students and teachers from Shigakukan Senior High School. Mr Hasegawa, Mr Takani, Miss Ashizawa, Kanami, Hina, Rion, Honoka, Keito, Takahiro, Hana, Ayato, Minari, Naruho, Kenta, Mahiro, Airi, Masaki, Kotoha, Naoya, Chiho, Kaho, Yusei, Kento, Tomoki and Kokoro spent their time studying English, attending classes with "buddy" students and participating in a variety of weekend excursions. A HUGE THANK YOU must be extended to all of the HOST FAMILIES – Mrs Bergamini, the Brooklands, the Crawshaws, Donaldsons, the Ellis-McDonald Family, the Hollands, Ian Jackson & Gloria Stacey, Doug Watson & Gerrie Ligtenberg, the Lindbloms, the Middletons, Jenny Russell, the Thapas and the Weavers - who all welcomed these students into their homes. It wouldn't have been possible without your warm hospitality.

Arigato gozaimasu!

A message from the Principal

Kia ora!

We are well into the third term at school and while there are still some interruptions to our usual school days to come such as tournament week, staff and students are all starting to feel the pressure of the looming NCEA exams – internal and external exams. Our students are reminded to keep planning their work, including their study time and meet with your support people such as your teachers and deans at school if you are struggling. Good results come about due to hard and consistent work.

I was asked recently by several parents about school homework, especially in senior classes as their children had informed them that they weren't having much. NCEA often involves students being self- directing and basically our senior students have on-going homework for all of their subjects. If formal homework is not set for an evening it is expected that they are reading and working through their lessons they had that day. Students are expected, for example, to be continually adding to their reading experiences so that they can complete their reading responses at all NCEA levels in English.

I have some concerns about some of our senior students who are credit chasing and just going for the required quantity of grades instead of going for quality grades and completing full courses. If a student is capable of obtaining a Merit or Excellence endorsement they are doing themselves a disservice by not achieving to their potential. Level I, II and III NCEA exams will not be the end point qualifications for most of our students. Further training will be required for most of them be that in a working or continuing education context. Prior knowledge is important and quality grades if nothing else will open up doors for students when they apply for such things as scholarships and jobs.

We have just said our good-byes to our guests from Shigakukan and it was a pleasure for our school to host them again. Thank you to Mr Lindblom and Miss Coskerie for all the background work that they did behind the scenes to make the visit such a success. Of course our thanks to our host families too for helping make the visit such a memorable one for the visiting students.

Nga mihi nui!

Kieran Stone Acting Principal

AORAKI JUNIOR MATHEMATICS COMPETITION

those who were selected to take part.

It was pleasing to see so many Opihi students taking part in the recent Aoraki Mathematics competitions for Years 7, 8, 9 and 10. The events were held at Timaru Boys High School and each team had 4 team members, including one runner who had the job of running to collect and return questions the markers. There were between 20 and 30 teams from throughout the Aoraki region, competing in each year group. While we didn't place in the top 3, all students enjoyed the event and represented the school well.
